When asked about the key factors in Eversource Energy’s sustainability success, resulting in a constant stream of recognition, Ellen Angley, Eversource Energy Vice President Supply Chain, Environmental Affairs & Property Management, put it simply:

“First, our performance is very metric driven. Second, sustainability is one of our core ethics and comes directly from our CEO. His commitment translates into a company-wide commitment that permeates everything we do.”

Ellen K. Angley
Vice President, Supply Chain, Environmental Affairs & Property Management

As you can see from our lead story, we are launching a new three-year strategic plan. 2018 will be an important year in terms of solidifying the strategy for each of our goals. Our last 3-year plan was focused on member performance. In the new plan, we continue to keep that focus – while turning some of our attention to building collaboration.

We are gathering information in order to open our membership to a targeted group of suppliers. Once we launch the program, we’re confident that it will help us to build stronger partnerships and cooperative creativity with our suppliers. A win-win for everyone!

I appreciate the legacy created by Tony Tomczak. I’m looking forward to working with you to build on that foundation and expand our sustainable footprint in 2018 and beyond. Stay safe.

March Practice Sharing: Choctaw-Kaul
Choctaw-Kaul, a distributor of PPE & disposable biodegradable gloves, will discuss how their gloves break down into compost with no change to fit, form, and function. Find out more about how this cost neutral alternative glove decomposes in 5 years or less compared to disposable nitrile gloves that take 100+ years to decompose. Join us as Choctaw-Kaul will bring greater awareness for green products and great talking points for those looking to improve their sustainability program.
